Dr. David Naylor will present the main recommendations put forward by the expert panel on Canada’s Fundamental Science Review on December 6.
“This report sets out a multi-year agenda that, if implemented, could transform Canadian research capacity and have enormous long-term impacts across the nation,” says Dr. Naylor.

The first review of its kind in over 40 years, some of the highlights of the report recommendations include:

- A major, multi-year reinvestment in front-line research
- An increase in annual spending across four major federal agencies from $3.5 billion today to $4.8 billion by 2022

One Year Ago, We Stood Together for Change

Last year at this time we were on the picket lines, fighting for fair treatment from the University administration. This year, we’re remembering all the hard work that was done and taking time to consider the work we still have to do.

"...we need to celebrate not just our specific strike, but that we have the ability to strike when necessary as an essential element of collective bargaining. Workers’ rights are being attacked in many ways in this province and elsewhere: we need to maintain and strengthen our solidarity not just because it feels good, but because of the message it sends to our members, the labour community, the employer, and the government."
